TITLE: Point of supply use distribution process and apparatus

BSPP:

First, an item is received as part of a package at the receiving dock 11 where a receiving clerk verifies 12 the contents of the package against vendor shipping documents. The package is then moved 13 to the storeroom where product identification labels are printed 14 for each of the items in the package. The items are removed from the packing carton 15, product identification labels are affixed to each item 16, and the items are then placed on the shelf 17 in the storeroom.

BSPP:

Concurrent with the supply replenishment process, the using department is continually in the process of dispensing items to the consumers. Departmental staff imprint cards 24 to collect cost accounting item data stickers. As the department staff remove items from the unit supply area for consumer use 25, the product identification labels on the items, which had been affixed to the items 16 in the storeroom, are transferred from the items to the consumer's charge ticket 26.
